Greetings Ridgewater College students – I hope this finds you well and back into the swing of things following two full weeks of our new instructional design. We so appreciate your patience and understanding during these somewhat trying and difficult days. As has been shared previously, Ridgewater College has two main goals that we have used as the backbone of all decisions during the COVID 19 planning and response phase of this semester:

#1 - To safeguard the health, safety, and welfare of our students.
#2 - To enable students to complete the spring semester and progress toward their educational goals.

If you find that you are struggling with goal #2 – please reach out ASAP to your instructor or to your advisor. They have been provided information on how to help and direct students and may have access to resources and information you may not be aware of. Due to our current COVID 19 situation, the ability for students to withdraw from courses through EServices has been disabled. We want and need you to visit with your instructor or your advisor first before making any decisions about your spring coursework. There are a full four weeks left of instruction for spring semester and we hope that you all can finish strong – like the Warriors we know you are!

If you are looking for summer course options or plan to return and haven’t yet registered for fall, those options are available to you now. Again, get in touch with your instructor or advisor and they will assist you. We have already started enrolling new students and are very excited to think about future semesters. Please know that we care deeply about each and every one of you and we are here to help you in whatever ways that we can. Thank you for putting your trust in Ridgewater College for your educational needs. Please continue to do all you can to stay healthy and strong and please let us know how we can be of assistance to you.
